

Join ADC in Sydney for Mediation training and accreditation

ADC* leads the field in mediation training. We are a not-for-profit dedicated to advancing Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) and providing world-class professional development training. ADC's Mediation Accreditation is held by many of the ADR industry's most respected mediators and is widely recognised and acknowledged across government, business and legal sectors.

ADC has been training mediators and mediation skills for over 25 years. Our 5-day flagship Mediation Course provides you with comprehensive training to the Australian National Mediator Accreditation Standards (NMAS) and will equip you with the skills needed to mediate in a range of dispute resolution situations. ADC's mediation course is designed and presented by Australia's leading mediator practitioner-trainers. To become an ADC Accredited mediator and apply for recognition under the Australian National Mediator Accreditation System we offer you our specialist Accreditation Day and a complete video assessment programme.

During the course you will:

- Gain a comprehensive theoretical foundation of the process and practice of mediation.
- Review interests based negotiation and its use in a mediation context.
- Learn to use the communication skills of a mediator; to assist parties in identifying and exploring key issues, generate and reality test options, shift impasses and negotiate agreement.
- Discuss issues relating to power, emotional responses and cross-cultural factors in a mediation setting.
- Discuss the legal and ethical obligations associated.
